26. Questions

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

A powerful series of earthquakes has struck Venezuela, causing widespread damage. Official reports state that the death toll is approaching 1,000, and thousands of people are injured because buildings have collapsed. Emergency medical services are completely overwhelmed. Rescue teams are working day and night to find survivors trapped under the rubble. Local authorities have declared a state of emergency because the time left to save lives is running out fast.

In response to this terrible tragedy, India has launched a special relief mission called "Operation Amistad" to send immediate help. An Indian Air Force (IAF) C-17 Globemaster aircraft was quickly sent to the disaster area. This large airplane is carrying 41 specialized rescue workers. It is also carrying essential relief materials like medical supplies, high-capacity tents, and emergency food rations. This quick action shows India's willingness to help other countries during big disasters.

The main focus now is to take care of the survivors and keep them safe. Because water pipelines are broken and sanitation facilities are damaged, there is a high risk of dirty water causing diseases in the temporary camps. Experts state that foreign aid is ___A___ to stop a secondary health crisis from spreading. International agencies are working together to make sure that clean water, food, and medical help reach the affected people quickly to alleviate their suffering.

What is the primary objective of India's newly launched "Operation Amistad" as described in the passage?

- a. To help rebuild damaged urban infrastructure and water pipelines in Venezuela

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

Grammar Rule: Subject-Verb Agreement

Detailed Breakdown: The main subject of the sentence is the gerund phrase "Investing in a property", which is singular. The plural phrase "within the city limits" acts as a filler/modifier between the subject and the verb. Therefore, the plural verb "are" is grammatically incorrect and must be replaced with the singular verb "is".

Correct sentence: Investing in a property within the city limits is a dream for many middle-class families.

2. Questions

Answer: C

Grammar Rule: Tense Consistency (Parallelism in time).

Detailed Breakdown: The sentence describes a series of actions that were already completed in the past. The first verb "completed" is in the simple past tense. To maintain proper tense consistency throughout the sentence, the second verb "publish" must also be changed to its simple past tense form, which is "published".

Correct sentence: The research team completed the ecology study and published the final report in a reputed scientific journal.

3. Questions

Answer: A

Grammar Rule: Preposition Error (Between vs. Among).

The preposition "among" is generally used when referring to a relationship or arrangement involving three or more members of a group, whereas "between" is appropriate when referring to two distinct parties. Since the sentence specifically mentions "the two participating countries," the use of "among" is inappropriate. It should be replaced with "between." The remaining parts of the sentence are grammatically and contextually correct.

Corrected Sentence:

The agreement was reached between the two participating countries after several rounds of negotiations were held during the summit.

4. Questions

Answer: D

Grammar Rule: Adjective/Determiner Usage (Much vs. Many).

Detailed Breakdown: "Much" is used to modify uncountable or singular quantities (e.g., much water, much effort). The noun "schemes" is a plural countable noun. Therefore, it must be modified by the adjective "many" instead of "much".

Correct sentence: The freshly appointed chairperson of the NHA has decided to introduce many welfare schemes next month.

5. Questions

Answer: E

Detailed Breakdown: The sentence is grammatically flawless. The conjunction "Although" properly establishes the contrast between loving water and using sand. The reflexive pronoun "themselves" correctly matches the plural subject "elephants", and the prepositions are used accurately.

6. Questions

Answer: E

The sentence is perfectly logical and grammatically sound in its original form. The department approved (A) the loan after evaluating (B) the credit score. The collateral (C) documents (security assets) were properly verified (D) (checked). No words need to be swapped.

7. Questions

Answer: A

The words “tasks” and “strategic” are in the wrong positions.

- strategic (B) should describe decisions → strategic decisions
- tasks (A) should follow routine → routine tasks

The other words are correctly placed: critical leadership responsibilities.

Corrected Sentence: In a rigid corporate structure, strategic (B) decisions are handled exclusively by senior executives, while routine tasks (A) are delegated to entry-level staff to free up time for critical (C) leadership responsibilities (D).

8. Questions

Answer: A

Stars do not collapse (A) their life cycle; they terminate (C) (end) it. They collapse (A) under their own gravity at the very end of their life cycle. Swapping base-form verbs A and C keeps the grammar flawless and corrects the chronological sequence.

Corrected Sentence: Massive stars terminate (C) their stellar life cycle by fusing (B) hydrogen atoms rapidly before they collapse (A) violently under their own gravity to form (D) dense black holes.

9. Questions

Answer: B

The nouns are inverted. A person consumes a balanced diet (B), which provides essential nutrition (A). Swapping the two singular nouns A and B corrects the syntax smoothly.

Corrected Sentence: A balanced diet (B) rich in seasonal fruits and green leafy vegetables provides essential nutrition (A) that strengthens (C) the immune system against seasonal illnesses (D).

10. Questions

Answer: D

The words “Developing” (D) and “Important” (A) need to be interchanged, while “keeping” (B) and “expands” (C) also need to be interchanged.

Corrected Sentence: Developing a daily habit of reading the newspaper expands your vocabulary while keeping you informed about important current global events.

11. Questions

Answer: C

Error Type: Misspelt Word.

Analysis: The word "transparancy" is spelt incorrectly. The correct spelling is "transparency" (with an 'e' in the final syllable instead of an 'a'). The remaining words are both spelt correctly and contextually perfect.

Corrected Sentence: The new HR policy ensures (A) that all employee grievances (B) are addressed by the management team with absolute transparency (C) and without any partiality (D).

12. Questions

Answer: D

Error Type: Misspelt Word.

Analysis: The word "proffit" is spelt incorrectly with a double 'f'. The correct spelling is "profit". The remaining words ("borrower's", "submitted", and "adequate") are completely correct.

Corrected Sentence: The credit officer rejected the borrower's (A) application because the submitted (B) documents failed to provide adequate (C) proof of a steady monthly profit (D).

13. Questions

Answer: B

Error Type: Inappropriate Word (Contextual Error).

Analysis: While "suffocate" is spelt correctly, it makes no sense here. A central bank lowers interest rates to boost, encourage, or "stimulate" economic growth, not to destroy or suffocate it.

Corrected Sentence: The central bank decided to lower (A) the interest rates to stimulate (B) economic growth, as consumer spending had dropped significantly (C) during the previous quarter (D).

14. Questions

Answer: D

Error Type: Inappropriate Word (Wrong word choice).

Analysis: The word "compliment" means praise, which contradicts the context of an angry customer filing a complaint. The agent wants to turn a negative "situation" or "experience" into a positive one.

Corrected Sentence: The service agent politely (A) handled the angry customer's complaint (B) and offered a quick solution (C) to turn the negative experience (D) into a positive one.

15. Questions

Answer: E

Analysis: All four bolded words are spelt flawlessly and fit the context of a cybersecurity warning perfectly. There is no spelling or contextual mistake in this sentence.

16. Questions

Answer: A

Option a (stimulate – regulating): This is the correct choice. Sunlight stimulates (promotes) Vitamin D production in the skin and assists in regulating (controlling) the body's internal circadian rhythm for healthy sleep patterns.

Option b (suppress – disrupting): This is contextually incorrect. Sunlight enhances bodily functions rather than acting as a mechanism that suppresses or disrupts them. @RankZenBanker

Option c (decrease – managing): This is factually flawed. Exposure to natural light increases Vitamin D levels in a human body instead of causing a decrease.

Option d (balance – altering): This is incorrect. While balancing is positive, the term altering is too ambiguous and does not inherently denote a healthy, structured improvement to a sleep cycle.

Option e (modernise – improving): This is grammatically inappropriate. Biological or evolutionary physiological functions occurring inside the human body cannot be modernised.

17. Questions

Answer: B

Option a (delayed – extending): This is contextually opposite to the purpose of a high-speed transit project, which aims to eliminate delays and extensions in travel.

Option b (revolutionised – reducing): This is the correct choice. Constructing modern mass transit lines revolutionised (completely transformed) city travel by drastically reducing (decreasing) daily commuting times.

Option c (threatened – expanding): This is illogical. Public transit infrastructure improves general urban connectivity and passenger movement rather than threatening it.

Option d (neglected – lowering): This is contradictory. Deploying a complex urban railway line represents clear physical development and structural investment rather than civic neglect.

Option e (stabilised – complicating): This is incorrect. Slashing travel times and smoothing out crowds simplifies the daily routine of a commuter instead of complicating it.

18. Questions

Answer: E

Option a (lose – overlook): This is incorrect. Losing funds and overlooking basic dangers represents poor money management instead of the goal of investing correctly.

Option b (consume – accept): This is incorrect. Capital assets are progressively built, generated, or expanded via strategic investments rather than consumed.

Option c (diminish – calculate): This is a contextual mismatch. Calculating economic risks responsibly serves to maximize capital growth rather than causing your wealth to diminish.

Option d (surrender – ignore): This is counterproductive. Ignoring active financial risks results in heavy market losses instead of successful wealth creation.

Option e (accumulate – evaluate): This is the correct choice. Strategic market choices allow investors to accumulate (gather and grow) long-term wealth, provided they systematically evaluate (assess) associated risk factors.

19. Questions

Answer: D

Option a (restrict – weakening): This is incorrect. An official development bank does not attempt to restrict financial funding access or weaken primary economic industries.

Option b (limit – damaging): This is incorrect. National development programs are explicitly structured to scale up and empower rural ecosystems instead of limiting or damaging them.

Option c (prevent – supervising): This is illogical. Blocking capital distribution to farmers completely opposes the fundamental operating mandate of development banking networks.

Option d (channel – boosting): This is the correct choice. The apex agency was legally set up to channel (direct and streamline) credit resources directly into rural zones, thus boosting (strengthening) local agricultural output.

Option e (isolate – protecting): This is incorrect. Isolating regional rural enterprises from major banking channels cuts off their growth entirely instead of protecting them.

20. Questions

Answer: E

Option a (jeopardise – exposing): This is incorrect. A structured fiscal strategy seeks to defend structural stability rather than jeopardising or exposing national markets to global harm.

Option b (undermine – shielding): This is a logical contradiction. Shielding local enterprises from harm does not undermine systemic macroeconomic stability.

Option c (handle – leaving): This is incorrect. Leaving local production plants to bear the brunt of sudden market shocks fails to form a protective or meaningful economic policy.

Option d (neglected – supporting): This is incorrect. Neglecting overall fiscal stability runs entirely counter to the objective of designing a supportive state trade system.

Option e (sustain – safeguarding): This is the correct choice. A balanced commercial trade framework acts to sustain (maintain/keep up) national stability while safeguarding (protecting) local industries from external volatility.

- c). The text never mentions saving or evacuating Indian citizens.
- e). The supplies are for the victims, not camps for international experts.

- b). delayed means postponed or made to happen later, which does not fit the meaning required here.
- c). local does not describe the foreign aid.
- d). narrow means small or limited, which makes no sense here.

29. Questions

Answer: B

The last sentence of the first paragraph explicitly says a state of emergency was declared because "the time left to save lives is running out fast."

Why other options are wrong:

- a). The text says the toll is approaching 1,000, not that it has already crossed it.

- d). and e) These facts are completely made up and not present in the paragraph.

30. Questions

Answer: E

The second paragraph directly states that the airplane is carrying 41 specialized rescue workers along with medical supplies, tents, and food.

Why other options are wrong:

- a). The passage says "an aircraft" (meaning only one), not five.
- b). The text says there is a risk of disease, meaning it has not fully spread yet.
- c). Local authorities have not refused aid; they welcome it.
- d). The first paragraph says rescue teams are working "day and night" (around the clock).

31. Questions

Answer: B

The last sentence of the second paragraph explicitly states: "This quick action shows India's willingness to help other countries during big disasters."

Why other options are wrong:

- a) and c) Military expansion or trade agreements are completely unmentioned in the text.
- d). While tents are mentioned as part of the cargo, the text does not say this action is meant to showcase manufacturing superiority.
- e). The passage mentions that the water pipelines belong to Venezuela and are damaged, not controlled by India.

32. Questions

Answer: B

The third paragraph explicitly mentions that due to broken water pipelines and damaged sanitation facilities, "there is a high risk of dirty water causing diseases in the temporary camps."

Why other options are wrong:

- a). The shortage discussed in the third paragraph is related to health and sanitation, not a lack of rescue workers.
- c). The text states that local authorities declared a state of emergency, not that the government collapsed.
- d). This directly contradicts the text, which highlights that foreign aid is vital and agencies are actively working together.
- e). The passage does not mention any scientific warnings or predictions about a secondary earthquake occurring.
