21. Questions

In the following question, a passage has been given and followed by several questions. You are required to answer the questions based on the information provided in the passage.

India stands at a turning point in how it approaches language education. The National Education Policy (NEP) and its three-language formula — English, mother tongue, and another Indian language — is a powerful step in strengthening our cultural roots. But, in practice, an unintended gap seems to be emerging: the gradual decline of foreign languages in CBSE schools. In many schools today, languages such as French, German, Spanish, and Italian are slowly being reduced or removed due to ambiguity in how the NEP is interpreted. This is not a small academic change but a structural shift in how we prepare India for the world.

There was a time when English language proficiency opened global doors for Indians. It allowed us to participate in multinational companies, rise to leadership positions, and become part of the global workforce at the right moment in history. Today, the world has changed again. Companies such as Airbus, Dassault Aviation, Renault, Citroën, and Saint-Gobain are deeply connected with India. Global offices are no longer “abroad”. They are in India. Workforces are distributed; projects are international, and the world is now truly multipolar. In such a world, knowing only English is no longer enough. Foreign languages are becoming strategic skills, not just academic subjects. At the same time, the aspirations of the Indian middle-class have transformed. Foreign education is no longer limited to the elite and many first-generation learners are now going abroad through structured pathways and education loans. However, not every student can access the U.S. or similar destinations easily due to financial and social constraints. This has led to Europe and Canada becoming strong alternatives that offer quality education and often a more stable multicultural environment. Early exposure to foreign languages in schools is, therefore, not a luxury. It is preparation that reduces academic pressure later, especially during Engineering or Medical studies, where students already face intense workloads. More importantly, it builds global confidence early in life.

There is yet another silent impact. [A1] Facing uncertainty, as schools [a]/ teachers across India are [b]/ thousands of foreign language [c]/ reduce these programmes [d]. This is not just about language education. It is about India’s global readiness. A small clarification within NEP’s implementation could ensure that foreign languages continue to coexist with Indian languages, enriching students instead of limiting options. India has always thrived when it embraces plurality: of languages, cultures, and ideas. Strengthening foreign languages does not weaken Indian identity. Instead, it strengthens the country’s global voice.

Sentence A1 is divided into four parts. Rearrange the parts into a meaningful sentence and mark the option accordingly.

- a. cbad
- b. bacd
- c. dbca
- d. abdc
- e. None of these

17. Questions

Answer: B

Both a-b and c-d, 'isolation and prolonged', 'found and develop' need to be interchanged to make the sentence contextually and grammatically correct.

- Corrected sentence:

This prolonged isolation allows plants and animals to develop characteristics that are rarely found elsewhere.

18. Questions

Answer: A

The correct arrangement is AECFDB.

- Sentence A opens the paragraph by introducing the main idea.
- Sentence E follows naturally because it explains the result of that isolation.
- Sentence C builds on E by using "Such specialized adaptations," which clearly refers back to the traits mentioned earlier.
- Sentence F then gives a direct example of the threat.
- Sentence D continues the chain of consequence, showing what happens after native species decline.
- Sentence B works best as the closing sentence because it states the broader conclusion and solution.

19. Questions

Answer: E

The correct arrangement is AECFDB.

- Sentence A opens the paragraph by introducing the main idea.
- Sentence E follows naturally because it explains the result of that isolation.

the traits mentioned earlier.

- Sentence F then gives a direct example of the threat.
- Sentence D continues the chain of consequence, showing what happens after native species decline.
- Sentence B works best as the closing sentence because it states the broader conclusion and solution.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The correct arrangement is AECFDB.

- Sentence A opens the paragraph by introducing the main idea.
- Sentence E follows naturally because it explains the result of that isolation.
- Sentence C builds on E by using "Such specialized adaptations," which clearly refers back to the traits mentioned earlier.
- Sentence F then gives a direct example of the threat.
- Sentence D continues the chain of consequence, showing what happens after native species decline.
- Sentence B works best as the closing sentence because it states the broader conclusion and solution.

21. Questions

Answer: A

The correct arrangement is cbad.

- Corrected sentence:

Thousands of foreign language teachers across India are facing uncertainty, as schools reduce these programmes.

22. Questions

Answer: E

The passage consistently argues that Indian languages and foreign languages can coexist, enabling students to remain rooted in Indian culture while becoming globally competitive.

- Option (2): The passage states that English remains important but is no longer sufficient by itself in an increasingly multipolar world.
- Option (3): The author discusses CBSE schools generally and nowhere proposes restricting foreign languages to private institutions.

23. Questions

Answer: D

The author analyses the implications of current educational policy while persuading readers that foreign languages deserve continued space alongside Indian languages.

- Option (A): The author briefly refers to the past but does not dwell on nostalgic memories.
- Option (B): The author clearly takes a position instead of remaining emotionally detached.
- Option (C): The passage contains no humour, irony, or satire.

24. Questions

Answer: C

The passage attributes the reduction of foreign languages to ambiguity in interpreting the NEP, not to any explicit prohibition within the policy.

- Option (A) directly supported by the discussion on reducing future academic burden.
- Option (B) supported through examples such as Airbus, Dassault Aviation, Renault, Citroen, and Saint-Gobain.
- Option (D) explicitly mentioned as an outcome of changing educational aspirations.

25. Questions

Answer: C

The passage explains that global businesses increasingly operate across countries, making knowledge of foreign languages a valuable professional skill rather than just another school subject.

- Option (A): The passage never states that foreign languages are compulsory worldwide.
- Option (B): No comparison regarding the difficulty of learning languages is made.
- Option (D): The author does not claim that only multilingual people are hired by multinational companies.
- Option (E): The passage mentions foreign education becoming more accessible but does not say universities universally require foreign-language certificates.

26. Questions

Answer: B

The author uses Europe and Canada as examples of destinations that many Indian students now consider because they offer quality education and are often more accessible than some other options.

- Option (A): The passage makes no comparison of economic size.
- Option (C): This contradicts the author's emphasis on the usefulness of foreign-language learning.
- Option (D): No comparison of education systems is made.
- Option (E): The passage says they are strong alternatives, not the only preferred destinations.

27. Questions

Answer: E

- Option (A): The passage says many schools are reducing such programmes.
- Option (B): The author states English remains important but is no longer sufficient by itself.
- Option (C): Benefits include careers, confidence, and international collaboration, not only overseas education.
- Option (D): The passage refers to ambiguity in implementation, not a mandatory replacement.

28. Questions

Answer: D

This reflects the author's central recommendation that a small clarification in the implementation of the NEP could allow foreign languages to coexist with Indian languages, thereby strengthening students' future opportunities.

- Option (A): The author opposes reducing foreign-language opportunities.
- Option (B): The author favours early school exposure, not postponing language learning.
- Option (C): The passage argues that English alone is insufficient.
- Option (E): The passage never advocates abandoning multilingual education; rather, it supports expanding students' linguistic choices.

29. Questions

Answer: B

"Ambiguity" means lack of clarity or uncertainty. Therefore, clarity is its opposite.

- Option (A): Doubt also reflects uncertainty.
- Option (C): Uncertainty is nearly synonymous with ambiguity.
- Option (D): Complexity refers to something being complicated.

30. Questions

Answer: B

"Plurality" refers to the existence of many different groups, ideas, cultures, or languages, making diversity its closest synonym.

- Option (A): Uniformity means sameness.
- Option (C): Rigidity refers to inflexibility.
- Option (D): Exclusivity means limiting access to a select group.

31. Questions

Answer: A

However correctly introduces a contrast between critics' opinions and readers' reactions.

Consequently and Hence are incorrect because no cause-and-effect relationship exists.

Likewise is incorrect because the two ideas are not similar.

32. Questions

Answer: D

Accordingly is correct because the second statement is the logical response to the discovery.

Similarly is incorrect because the ideas are not comparable.

Nevertheless is incorrect because there is no contrast.

Otherwise is incorrect because no condition is involved.
